THE GREAT BATTLE OF THE MONSTERS

Three-armed Combat between a 100-foot whale
a 100-foot shark
a 100-foot swordfish

THE passengers on the Pacific Mail Company's steamship City of Sydney, which recently arrived in San Francisco, were treated to the spectacle of a very remarkable and bloody combat between three powerful monsters of the deep.

The ship was passing Cape San Lucas, which is the southern extremity of Lower California. The lookout reported "breakers ahead, etc." Captain McLane, of the City of Sydney, knew from the chart that there could be no land ahead of him. It was bright daylight, and he understood exactly where he was. He felt sure that there could be no danger under these circumstances from the mysterious object reported by the lookout. Therefore he kept straight on his which the lookout had taken for breakers. They were utterly amazed and bewildered. At a point straight ahead of them, right in the course of the ship, the ocean was raging like a cauldron over a space two hundred yards in diameter.

Then an amazing thing happened. A huge form, like nothing ever seen on earth and like nothing these passengers had ever dreamed, reared itself high out of the water. It seemed as large as a great ship. It was obviously quivering with life. It darkened the sun and overshadowed the ocean. It was spouting torrents of mingled blood and foam. The sun glittered upon the vast expanse of blood and illuminated them luridly. The spectacle was horrible. The huge creature seemed writhing with agony. The spectators expected to hear it utter a shriek of pain that would deafen them, but it was silent, and its very silence made the apparition all the more uncanny.

Then still more astonishing things happened. A long black spear shot up out of the water and thrust savagely at the belly of the monstrous thing while it was still in the air. From another spot a fish with a curved tail twenty feet long, flashing like a magic scimitar, flew out of the water, struck the writhing monster again and again with incalculable rapidity, and dived back into the water.

The monster flung its tail sideways with a blow that would have swept a palace from its foundations, but struck nothing but the air.

Then it fell back into the ocean again with a sound like a great thunder clap and a splash that sent the water a hundred feet into the air.

For some minutes the ocean boiled with submarine warfare. Hither and thither moved the fight, its presence indicated by huge swellings and eruptions of the surface. Once more the vast monster reared itself into the air, still pursued by the cruel thrusting spear and the long scimitar tail. Its blood flowed as from an inexhaustible well, and dyed the surface of the ocean.

The City of Sydney was bearing straight down upon the fight, but the combatants paid not the slightest attention to the presence of man, strange as it must have been to them. Apparently the ship would run straight into them.

The captain then realized that there might be a terrible danger, for he knew that that monster in its blind agony was capable of hurling itself against a ship and wrecking it.

The passengers were in a state of commotion. The timid begged the captain to take them immediately out of danger.

"Please, Mr. Captain, take us right away before we are all killed," cried one woman, holding two children by the hand.

The captain turned his ship out of her course to avoid all possible danger, but after doing so slowed down so that they could watch the fight.

Old sailors were now able to tell just what was happening. It was a battle between a whale on one side and a thrasher shark and a swordfish, allied for offensive purposes, on the other.

The great monster that flung itself repeatedly out of the water was a sulphur-bottom whale, a species once rather common off the coast of California, but now driven to the depths of the ocean and the distant islands. It is the largest creature in existence, probably the largest that has ever lived on land or sea. It frequently attains a length of a hundred feet and a weight of 150 tons.

The long spear that was seen shooting out of the water at the whale belonged to a swordfish. There are four well recognized species of this creature. The one seen by the passengers on the City of Sydney was a member of the most deadly species. Its sword, which is a bony continuation of the upper jaw, was fully fifteen feet long. It was as sharp as a sword at the point and had two cutting edges, which could easily be surmised from the long gashes which each blow made in the side of the whale. The sword had sharp barbs turned backward and projecting from its sides all the way back to the head. When the swordfish thrusts this weapon into an ordinary creature, even one as large as a porpoise, the barbs have the effect of dismembering the victim, but when the sword is driven into an object of unusual toughness, such as the bottom

The adventurous passengers, on the other hand, called upon the captain to give them a good sight of the wonderful spectacle.

The wise captain turned his ship out of her course to avoid all possible danger, but after doing so slowed down so that they could watch the fight.

THE KISSLESS COURTSHIP OF THE NEWEST MARRIAGE CULT

No Caresses, No Holding Hands, No "Love-Making" at All; Not Even Ordinary Conversation Except in the Presence of Others—and a Whole Year of This Cruel Probation

Before the Prize Candidates of the Fantastic Chicago Sect, "The Architects," Will Be Permitted to Unite in the Strange Marriage That Is to Regenerate the Human Race.

THE strongest bride and bridegroom in the world are now preparing in Chicago for the most curious marriage ceremony in the history of civilization. The bride is Tucker Tyffe. The groom is Richard Wunder. Both are members of The Architects, a "Simple Life" religious philosophy sort headed by Dr. Asher Gluck, with headquarters at No. 1171 Milwaukee avenue, Chicago.

Of all the strange colonies which have originated in Chicago The Architects is the most fantastic, viewed from the standpoint of selfless social conduct.

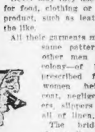

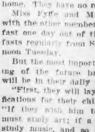

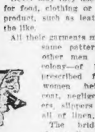

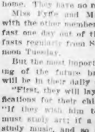

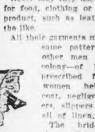

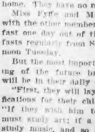

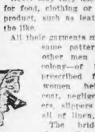

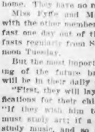

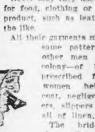

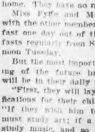

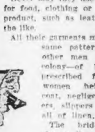

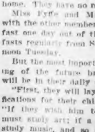

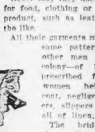

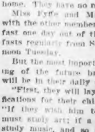

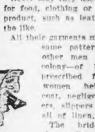

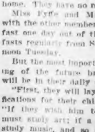

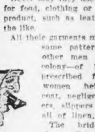

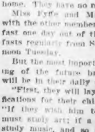

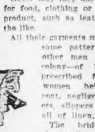

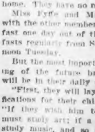

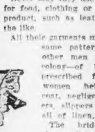

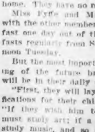

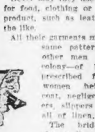

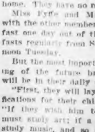

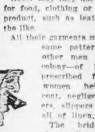

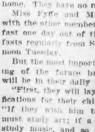

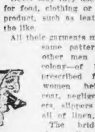

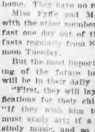

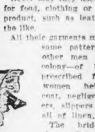

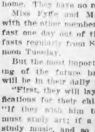

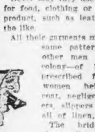

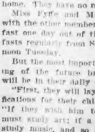

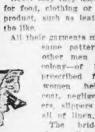

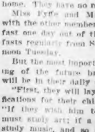

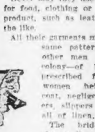

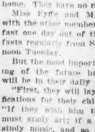

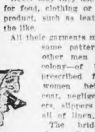

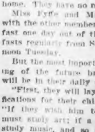

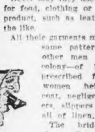

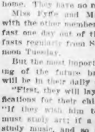

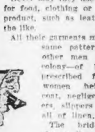

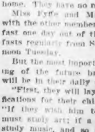

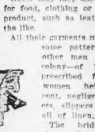

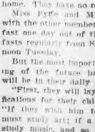

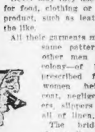

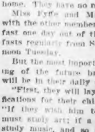

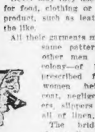

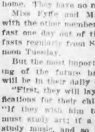

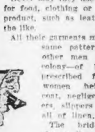

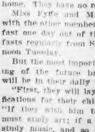

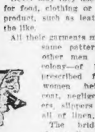

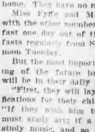

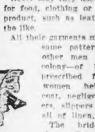

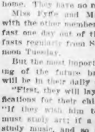

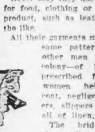

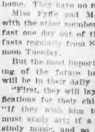

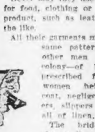

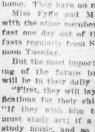

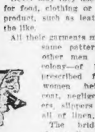

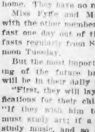

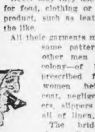

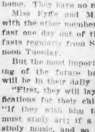

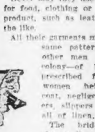

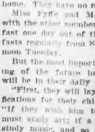

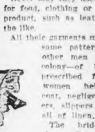

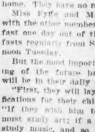

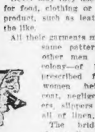

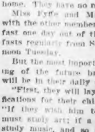

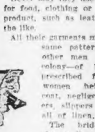

Dr. Gluck Tyffe was a country school teacher before he joined The Architects, and Richard Wunder was a portrait artist. They have never held each other's hands. Richard has never put his arm around the slender waist of his future bride, indeed, he has never ventured even to smooth her dark brown tresses in the manner that sweethearts love.

King Edward picks out the most Beautiful Woman in the Whole British Empire

LADY POLE CAREW
THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN
IN THE WHOLE BRITISH EMPIRE

Miss Julia Nielson.

On the subject of what the British public and King Edward are in harmony, there seems that Lady Pole Carew is the most beautiful of the English beauties.

Artistic society has known for a long time that this was the King's opinion, and now a public voting contest conducted by a London newspaper has decided the matter for the whole nation, a vote of some half dozen other names of lovely British maidens and matrons being entitled to secondary honors in the beauty contest.

The others—whose photographic charms are reproduced on this page—are: Lady Helen Vincent, Princess Henry of Prussia and the Duchess of Sutherland, in the order named, and the London favorite, Miss Evelyn Millard.

As Lady May and Camille Clifford have been at least "near English," they were admitted to the contest, but neither of them polled a large vote.

Lady Pole Carew is the wife of Major-General Sir Hugh Pole Carew, who lately retired from the British army. She is a daughter of the Marquis of Granby, of "Violet," Countess of Tyrone, Ireland, and her mother was Lady Plunkett, Countess of Farnham, daughter of the Duke of Westminster.

Lady Pole Carew's beauty is of the Irish type, yet on lines of such classic perfection that she has been called, and perpetuated in marble as, "the British Venus of Milo."

Before her marriage King Edward called her "the most beautiful girl in Ireland." When, as Lady Pole Carew, she became mistress of one of the finest of aristocratic London mansions, the King declared her to be the first among English beauties.

As she is still young and possessed of magnificent health and spirits, it seems probable that it will be many years yet before Lady Pole Carew will have to yield the beauty palm to any other Englishwoman, especially as she is a prime favorite among English beauties.

Lady Helen Vincent is not only a recognized beauty, but as the wife of Sir Edgar Vincent, Member of Parliament for Exeter, she has won fame for her political activities. At her splendid home, Exeter Place, at different times occupied by Cardinal Wolsey and other celebrities, she is the favorite hostess in the West-End group of English beauties.

Lady Helen Vincent is of higher mold than Lady Pole Carew, having a rounded, massive figure that is always in vogue with grace. She has a complexion of marble whiteness, with soft, roushion in the cheeks, an abundance of hair, with flashes of sunlight in it, and a voice full of magnetism. She is, the eldest surviving of Lord and Lady Pembroke's extraordinarily beautiful quartet of daughters.

One of England's beautiful women have been more written about, or often photographed, than the Princess Henry of Prussia. Although this contest has assigned her to third place, she has usually been referred to as the loveliest of Englishwomen of her time.

She is the daughter of Mrs. William Cornwallis West, herself a famous beauty, who was married to Prince Henry XV. of Prussia and Count of Hohenberg in 1891. No less a personage than the present Prince of Wales was at one time so smitten by her charms that he was sent off to sea in command of the cruiser Cresset.

When in England Princess Henry of Prussia usually stays with her own family, either at Ratby Castle, or at Newlands Manor, a delightful old house overlooking the sea. She is a daughter of the Marquis of Granby, of "Violet," Countess of Tyrone, Ireland, and her mother was Lady Plunkett, Countess of Farnham, daughter of the Duke of Westminster.

the artist. Her principal activities of great endurance of stage people and celebrities in other lines of artistic endeavor, who is the author of at least one novel, and of a book of travels entitled "How I Spent My Twentieth Year."

The stage favorites included in this list of English beauties are not of the same hall class which furnished a Causus of Clansy. Miss Julia Nielson is an established star of the legitimate drama. When she appeared recently as Hamlet in "As You Like It" all the critics united in praise of her beauty and charm, one declaring her to be in that part Shakespeare's satisfaction of Tennessee's "daughter of the gods, divinely soft and most divinely fair."

Evelyn Millard is a daughter, and was educated by, her father, Professor John Millard, of the Royal Academy and the Royal College of Music. She is the favorite among the younger leading ladies of the English stage, having established herself beyond question in the heroine roles of society drama, such as those of Florence, Oliver Wilde and Henry Arthur Jones. Her beauty is of the attractive order.

One feature of this beauty contest will surprise strange to Americans who have not lived abroad. One here a public ballot to decide who is the most beautiful woman in the world, but would be an absurdity, because with a small percentage of the general public would be able to recognize the greatest and most advanced society leader if they met her face to face on the street.

In England there is not nearly as much difference between the people in the different social circles as in the United States. The women who make Newport a sort of holy of holies, Aristocrats, Regentesses, are much more democratic in their associations. Their lives intensely, though so impracticable in their high social position that they are not afraid to be "stagnant," meeting on equal terms all sorts of social, even poverty-stricken, persons whose achievements in an intellectual way or whose accomplishments and personality serve to distinguish them.

There are one who care to do so in London may and opportunity to at least become familiar with the face and figure and general characteristics even of members of the royal family. They do not seem, as here, to take on pretense, and are naturally more to distinguish them.

Astonishing Scheme of a Notorious Siren Who Entrapped George Rhodius, Made Him Marry Her, Grabbed His Great Fortune and Then Disappeared.

Only by the two family servants, who are furnished the lawyers with plenty of material for sensational press articles in the advertising charge.

The most dramatic episode in connection with the abduction occurred at the hotel in Pittsburgh, just as the attorney related by the fair abductress arrived. Powerful detectives were sent to locate the pair, and hurried to the hotel occupied by the famous siren.

This waiting party period abductress in the hotel apartment and found an important conference with the abductress law in progress. The millionaire was present, and the abductress was in a position to make the most of the situation. He was making the most of the situation. He was making the most of the situation.

The fair abductress was taking advantage of a contest of her rights. Dr. Baldwin and Ayres were present. They made some sort of examination of the half-mad millionaire and made out a certificate to the effect that to was of sound mind.

Thereupon the abductress lawyers produced a legal paper which proved to be a power of attorney giving to Mrs. Rhodius absolute control of her husband's property.

Elma Dare, Who Is Charged With Abducting and Marrying Millionaire George Rhodius.

"There Is a Famous Piece of Sculpture Depicting the Fragile Form of a Semi-Nude Woman in the Grasp of a Ferocious, Snarling Gorilla. Possibly the Real Life Episode Here Related Will Inspire Some Sculptor of the Realistic School to Put a Woman's Head on the Gorilla and Transform the Prey into a Feeble-Minded Millionaire."

AFTER this who will presume to say that the "new woman" has fallen to mere fortune-hunting. Having successfully lured nearly all business except the most winning occupations of men she now appropriates the traditional part of the victim—the blonde, the blonde, the blonde.

Nothing less than that is the charge made along according to the evidence. A handsome young woman of the city, who is wanted by the police of that city for abducting a feeble-minded millionaire.

In justice to the abductress it must be admitted that she was not a mere fortune-hunter. She was a woman of her class. She was a woman of her class. She was a woman of her class.

But because he is feeble-minded, and because she had signed a legal paper agreeing for a consideration, to let him alone to do as he pleased, she was not a mere fortune-hunter. She was a woman of her class. She was a woman of her class. She was a woman of her class.

It is on her trial with a warning. The story of the abduction and marriage is a sad one. It is a story of a woman who was not a mere fortune-hunter. She was a woman of her class. She was a woman of her class. She was a woman of her class.

The Invalid Abducted Millionaire in His Wheelchair.

While the opposing party vainly protested the document was submitted to Rhodius for his signature.

Then the millionaire did appear to have a moment of the kind of sanity that is sometimes to be found in the feeble-minded. He did not sign the paper.

Some Royal Princes Who Have Married Actresses.

LOVE hangs at times as it hangs at society and millions in America. At any rate, it is not a new thing. It is a thing that has been going on since the world began.

There is a famous piece of sculpture depicting the fragile form of a semi-nude woman in the grasp of a ferocious, snarling gorilla. Possibly the real life episode here related will inspire some sculptor of the realistic school to put a woman's head on the gorilla and transform the prey into a feeble-minded millionaire.

CLASSIC old Yale is being shaken again in its theatre. The bare boughe of the century old elms on the campus creak with the weight of the story. There has not been as much excitement in the institution founded by old Eli since the last intercollegiate football race. All the students are intensely interested, more thirty-seven of them so much interested that they have quietly packed their grips and left.

This unprecedented stir has been made by a mere girl of twenty-two, but she is a most important girl, in so far as a national figure. For she is the "College Widow" of old Yale, the prettiest girl in New Haven, in Connecticut, and even, it has been claimed, in New England.

And, sadly discarding fact, she has been secretly married and is now being sued for divorce. Most disturbing of all, thirty-seven Yale students have been named as co-respondents.

Most unusual in the story since the bride is being sued for divorce by a man to whom she has never been married. Her husband being dead twenty years old, and to the eyes of the law, at least, the suit has been brought by the bridegroom's father, who described his son as a villain and therefore irretrievable.

The romance whose tender idylls has been played by the frosty air of a romance courtship began when Edwin Kenneth Norton, a freshman, resided in New Haven for the Christmas holidays a year ago. New Haven and a bewitching college widow and the super-exhilarating air of Connecticut after a heavy fall of snow are a combination of forces too mighty for a feeble freshman of nineteen to resist.

That Grad New Law.

Mr. Edwin Kenneth Norton, son of the millionaire president of the American Gas Trust, and Miss Josephine Celeste Blinn, were dancing over the snow, in the last of which from a New Haven they they found the young benedict poring over his books.

disposed champagne, though," added the young woman.

"Did you ever see her drinking champagne with men other than her husband?" asked the young woman.

"Such attention as any married woman may properly receive."

After recovering from her swoon, Mrs. Norton, with eyes filled with tears, told the newspaper her story.

"I know that the courts will vindicate me and will refuse to divorce me from my husband. My love for him is as full as ever and only once have I doubted that he has ceased to love me."

"When Detective Joseph Berger testified that he had identified me by means of a picture taken from a watch which my husband gave me, it was like a dash of ice to the face."

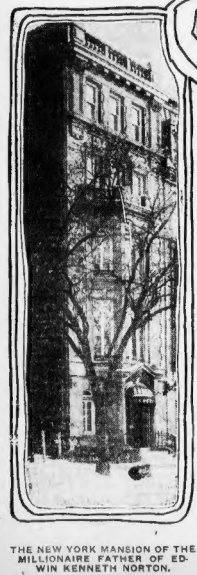

"I had given it to my husband and he had given it to me."

"I had given it to my husband and he had given it to me."

"Had driven Mrs. Norton and a Yale student in a cab and heard them kissing."

"I did," answered another.

"Don't you say that you had come to tell her you had done her a great injustice in your enthusiasm and that Detective Webb had put the words in your mouth?"

PUZZLE of MARS BY SAM LOYD

WE have for our little readers this week an interesting puzzle of the stars to solve. In the picture is shown the planet Mars, which we all know has a series of canals running through it. In these canals you will find a series of letters. The paths of the canals are plainly marked out, and the idea of the puzzle is to try and see if you can spell out a sentence beginning with the letter T at the bottom of the planet and following out the passages to each individual letter, ending up with the letter Y, and so spell out a complete sentence. To help out our little readers we will tell them that the first word of the sentence is the word "There."

We have no doubt that a vast number of our clever puzzlers will send us the correct answer, and to 1,000 of those who do we will send a prize puzzle book. Send your answers to MARS PUZZLE, P. O. Box 1551, New York City.

Good News for Farmers and the Nation

C HIS country should follow with interest the recent movements through out the country originated and carried on by the farmers of the United States. Such movements have been widespread, intelligently thought out. They have produced admirable results already, and they promise wonderful results in the future.

Our readers in the city realize, of course, that national prosperity depends upon the farmers more than upon any other class of our people.

The mechanic making the soil products commercially available is the good servant of the people.

The business man planning wide distribution of national wealth is also the nation's useful, indispensable servant.

But the farmer, who actually takes from the ground its wealth—the man who ACTUALLY FEEDS THE NATION—IS THE WORKER TO WHOM THE COUNTRY OWES THE MOST.

In the past, the farmer has been the most poorly rewarded in proportion to his services. Legislation, instead of working for him, has worked too often against him. Protection has added a great deal to his bills without adding much to his income. He has been ground down that the railroads might pay dividends on their thirteen billions securities, more than half wheat.

In the cities mechanics, by close unions, have bettered themselves.

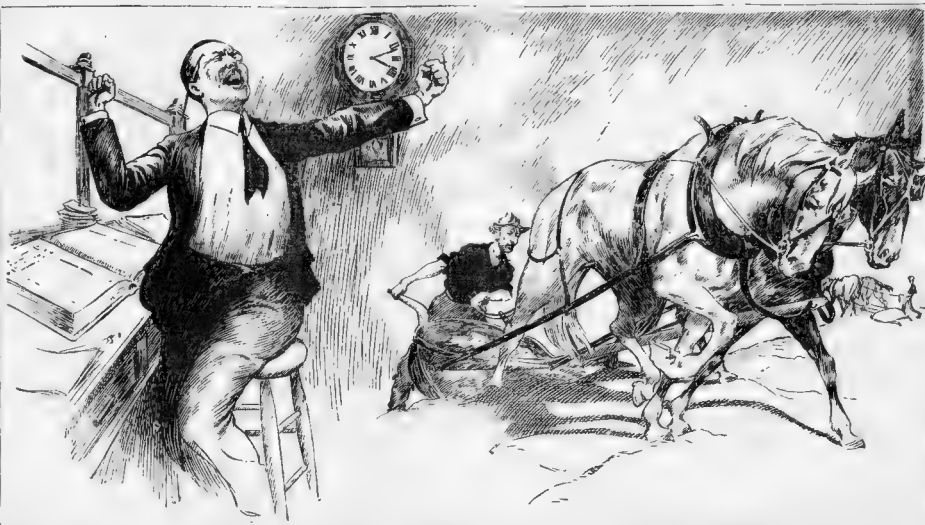

In business circles the business men, by close attention to trade interests and to protection, have protected themselves.

The few great heads of corporations, intelligently co-operating, have accumulated their hundreds of millions, thanks largely to the farmer. AND MEANWHILE THE FARMER, WORKING IN ISOLATION, AT THE MERCY OF LABOR CONDITIONS AND TARIFF CONDITIONS AND RAILROAD CONDITIONS, HAS STRUGGLED ALONG UNAPPRECIATED, WITHOUT HIS FAIR SHARE OF THE NATION'S WEALTH.

Voltaire, almost at the end of his eighty-four years of brave and useful life, wrote to a friend in Paris from Ferney that his principal claim as a man was in the fact that he had cultivated a part of the earth intelligently and caused it to produce good crops.

Every farmer who cultivates honestly and intelligently a part of the earth's surface, producing food for other human beings, has obeyed practically in

Are You a WORKER or a SHIRKER?

The Man Who Watches the Clock and Yawns, and Waits for the End of Effort, Is the Man WHO WILL KEEP ON WATCHING A CLOCK ALL HIS LIFE

C HE picture on this page shows two kinds of men, in fact, the worker and the shirker. The horses in the picture typify ambition, effort for its own sake.

We are writing this for the benefit of young men who want to succeed in the world, and who foolishly imagine that success can be achieved except in doing the very best that a man has in him.

There are in this world honest workers, there are also shirkers and "clock watchers."

We invite the young women who have got anything in them, any good mainspring, any ambition, to consider the yawning, idle, inert clerk at his desk in this picture. Then consider the real worker who handles the big iron scoop and the honest, ambitious horses that do their full day's work gladly, EVEN WITHOUT THE HOPE OF FUTURE INDEPENDENCE OR FREEDOM FROM TOIL.

There are two ways of succeeding in the world. One is the way of the unusual genius, who does what no other man has done. Only a few can succeed in that way.

The other way is THROUGH COURAGE, HONESTY OF EFFORT, to do an ordinary work so well that it is bound to lead to something else.

The Spring season is now approaching. It is the time of year in which the man of little courage and little quality sinks down and falls behind in the race. It is the time for the man of power to show his quality and gain the lap that he holds for the rest of the race.

You all know that every race is won at the END of the race. Anybody can run fast in the beginning. Anybody can work pretty well for the first few weeks or months that follow the annual vacation.

This is the time when the men who haven't got it in them to last begin to fall down.

This is the time when they turn their eyes up to the clock every few minutes. This is the time when they stop working unless somebody is watching them. This is the time when they stupidly imagine that they are cheating their employer, whereas in reality THEY ARE

CHEATING THEMSELVES.

Look over this picture, get its meaning into your minds, remember that many a man working with a plough or the scoop has lived to be great and useful, AND THAT NO YAWNING, DAWDLING, SHIRKING, CLOCK-WATCHER EVER AMOUNTED TO ANYTHING. BE one of the real workers in the big job or the little one. It isn't your fault if you haven't got genius. It isn't your fault if you haven't got influential friends or a fortune.

But it is your fault IF YOU SHIRK INSTEAD OF WORK. IF YOU WATCH THE CLOCK FOR A CHANCE TO GET AWAY, WHEN YOU OUGHT TO BE WATCHING FOR A CHANCE TO WORK BETTER AND HARDER.

They are tired of selling their wheat for one price to see a speculator retail it to the public for 50 per cent. more.

They are tired of picking the cotton and turning it over to gamblers that bid up the price, tax the man who makes it, rob the mill hand and do the farmer no good.

The farmers have begun to unite to protect themselves against oppression by the trusts that exploit them—but the Railroad Trust especially—that weigh on their backs, taking a half day's labor from every horse, half the product of every cow and field.

The extension of this farmers' movement is important to the whole nation, because it means GREATER WEALTH AND PROSPERITY FOR THE WHOLE NATION.

We have millions upon millions of acres lying idle, and thousands of millions only indifferently cultivated, BECAUSE THE FARMER HAS NOT HAD A DECENT REWARD.

The wealth of the country depends on what the farmers of the country bring out the mines, of course. There is a wealth from the factories where the raw product takes shape.

Farmers Produce the Nation's Wealth

The Prosperity of the Nation Depends on the Farmer

But first of all, and essential to everything, is the wealth of the soil which the FARMERS give us.

What the people give to the farmers the farmers put back in the ground. Another hundred dollars per year more means more acres ploughed and planted. A thousand dollars more per year means a farm better fertilized and more productive.

No imagination can exaggerate the addition to the wealth of this country which would result from full, honest pay to farmers for the work that they do.

The acre that produces $5 of profit to the ill-treated farmer, will produce $50 or $100 where the farmer, well-treated, is able to treat his land proportionately well.

Good pay for mechanics has always been advocated by this newspaper, because it means distribution of money among business men and increase of general prosperity.

Good pay, fair treatment, added wealth for the farmers is more important than anything else.

Because the farmer does more than DISTRIBUTE wealth, he actually CREATES it.

Where he cuts out the brush this year, he produces food for a hundred families next year.

Nature is the foster mother of us all, and the farmer is Nature's agent and partner.

This newspaper, printed in five great American cities, has millions of readers in the cities and millions in the country. We hope soon to see these readers of city and of country united—united for the benefit both of city and of country.

The city's prosperity reflects the prosperity of the country round about.

The farmer's prosperity depends, of course, upon the capacity of the great crowd in the city to buy and pay well.

A union, offensive and defensive, between the honest American workers of the soil, the factory and the business office—a union against exploitation of the many by the few—will mean such real prosperity as has never been seen in this country or in any other.

The farmers alone, to whom we extend our earnest wishes for the success of their organizations, will add billions annually to the actual wealth of this nation as soon as they persuade the trusts to get off their backs, as soon as they get for themselves a fair price for what they produce, as soon as they have the money to treat a generous soil generously.

The Foreign Table Note
By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

[illegible]

But now, after nine months or more in foreign lands, in France, Holland, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Sicily, I have some right to feel satisfied with the blast of fresh breezes and cooks, and 'tis I most emphatically exclaim:

The American New England cook and the Southern negro cook know more about palatable, appetizing and delicious cooking than all the hotels and restaurants in Europe combined.

Were it not for the benevolent cow, I should have been a dyspeptic wreck after three months' abroad. Two or three weeks of the horrible

The same pattern for the same dance, the same design, the same extra course, of a lonely, sinking tide able, period all by itself. Out the entrance of a tidal cycle to give the eye a momentary glimpse of the future.

And the persistence of the European mind, there is appalling.

So, no one get away from it. You say you will, you call for a card and order a "carte," at least once you are determined to have what you want as you want it.

But it proves to be a case of a "rose with thorns" and a "diamond with rough edges." The European cooks lack originality. They lack individuality. They rely on traditions. They are good cooks for seven days. But they cannot cook seven days for seventy years, and give you nothing a forest.

There is a sweet strain of music, which is used only once after a time. The seven days' concoctions cease to appeal to famished appetites.

And then potatoes! May the calendar mark 1949 before I see another boiled or "babe string" potato after I leave this land.

Times only, by sending a request to the cook twenty-four hours in advance (and feeling awkward), have I seen a baked potato in Europe.

Yet they are on every menu in every hotel in America.

Therefore I declare that for variety of a "starch" in preparation of appetizing dishes America is pasted Europe unmercifully.

The guest, thinking is a gentleman, asks, "Is it cooked here?"

It is done according to custom. It is warm, but it becomes like a good store, too often.

I love Europe for its wonderful history, its world of humanities, its exquisite art, its million wonders, its good manners, its agreeable politeness, its purpose and a score of other charms.

But while my mind and heart are eyes are turned to the great stars of Europe, my feet are turned to the American dinner.

It may be suggested that nearly all the American hotels possess European cooks, and the American who owns or manages each hotel gives the flavor to the daily menu.

Europe lives on tradition. America lives on novelty. The American public would not submit to the menus of its grandparents, nor change or innovation. Therefore the culinary surprises that are to be found in the Talented Charlotte Hunt Prefers the Fireside and Mother's Loving Care to Success That Might Be Attained by Sacrificing Them.

By Ernest L. Walli

IF you were a cold, beautiful, accomplished young actress would you order to retain the quiet happiness of a home life or would you risk the possibility of becoming a famous name by sacrificing the home life?

Charlotte Hunt, the famous actress, has answered this question. She has chosen the home life. She has chosen the fireside and the mother's loving care. She has chosen the quiet happiness of a home life over the possibility of becoming a famous name by sacrificing the home life.

THE AMERICAN'S ANNOUNCEMENT

YEARS ago the rich man looked upon knowledge as his exclusive property; but home education and the public schools have changed all this. To-day a good general education may be secured in the home through the aid of a first-class Encyclopedia. It gives complete and accurate knowledge on every subject in words that all can understand. It gives the greatest possible aid to school children and students of all ages.

Realizing the necessity for a good Encyclopedia in every home, we take pleasure in announcing that we have arranged for another small edition of the New Standard Encyclopedia and Atlas. These sets, as long as they last, will be assigned to readers and friends at the lowest possible price and on the same advantageous terms as were sets of the former edition by The American's Club—Half Price and on Small Monthly Payments.

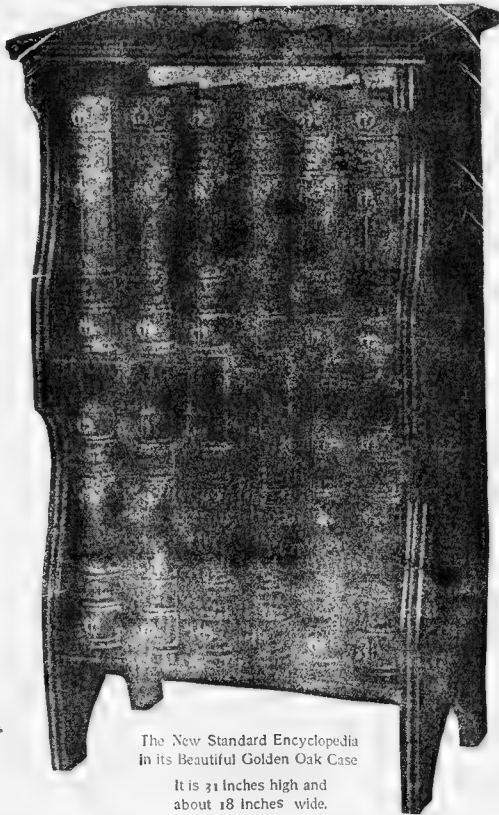

A LIMITED OFFER

The former club was a great success. Many letters have been received from readers of this paper who have already secured sets of THE NEW STANDARD ENCYCLOPEDIA through the former Club. They speak in praise of the work and the enterprise which placed it within their reach. Many others neglected the opportunity until after the Club was closed, and have asked for another chance.

The edition which we have secured is a very small one and the sets will last but a short time. They are fresh from the presses and go directly from the binder to you.

They are printed from new plates on high-grade book paper and bound in a beautiful and substantial manner. The work is the best in every respect and will prove satisfactory in every way.

Every home should have a first-class American Encyclopedia. Readers who have no Encyclopedia at all or who have an old, out-of-date, unsatisfactory Encyclopedia should send for particulars at once. Full information regarding the Club and the Encyclopedia will cost nothing and may be worth many dollars to you.

The New Standard Encyclopedia in its Beautiful Golden Oak Case

It is 31 inches high and about 18 inches wide.

PRACTICAL CO-OPERATION

The AMERICAN'S object in forming these Clubs is, first, to place useful and necessary books in the homes of the people; and, second, to demonstrate the practical power of co-operation.

Heretofore the best Encyclopedias have been held at such high prices that only the rich could afford to own them. This is largely the result of antiquated and expensive selling methods. Before the books finally reach the home of the purchaser they pass through the hands of various middlemen, such as agents, canvassers, etc., each of whom demands a share of the profits. This makes the net price to the customer far out of proportion to the actual cost of production, hence, first-class, high-grade Encyclopedias have been largely confined to the favored few who could afford to pay from $80 to $150 for them.

The American's Co-operative Club does away entirely with all middlemen. By guaranteeing to the publishers of the Encyclopedia the immediate sale of an entire edition, all selling expense is eliminated; hence those who join the Club are enabled to secure sets at the lowest wholesale price and on terms that amount to but a few cents each day. This is practical co-operation.

NEW STANDARD ENCYCLOPEDIA AND ATLAS

12 Massive Volumes

10,000 Pages

60,000 Articles

3,000 Illustrations

After looking over the field carefully for an Encyclopedia that would measure up to all requirements, the New Standard was selected because in the judgment of the eminent critics and scholars it is the best and most practical reference work on the market for home and general use.

Points of Superiority

It is the best Encyclopedia for busy men, for home use, and for college students. It is the most complete and satisfactory reference work now before the American public. Its editors and contributors represent many of the most prominent men in our national life, such as ex-President Grover Cleveland, President Hadley, of Yale University, Charles D. Smith, former Postmaster General, William B. Ewald, Director U. S. Census, the late John Hay, Secretary of State, Carroll D. Wang, U. S. Commissioner of Labor, John G. Thompson, the ex-vice president, Edward E. Hunt, Senator from Georgia, and George B. Connelley, a well-known writer. It is the most complete and satisfactory reference work now before the American public.

Distinguished Editors

The New Standard is not one of those cheap, foreign encyclopedias, published from the old editions and printed from worn-out plates, but a first-class American Encyclopedia, written by practical men and recently completed after years of labor and at enormous expense. It is designed for the home, for busy men, and for school students of all ages. Its articles are simple, clear and readable, containing all the facts, in concise and comprehensive form. No other reference work on the market measures up to it. Its 12 large volumes deal with more topics—of great value to 100,000 volumes bound in such a compact and condensed form.

Opinions of the Critics

President Reed, Dickinson College: "A library in itself." Principal Feltz, Brooklyn High School: "A most admirable work." Congressman Champ Clark, Missouri: "A great time saver." State Superintendent Schenck, New York: "A convenient and valuable authority for reference." Professor Egan, Catholic University: "The clear statement of facts has induced me to recommend the work in many quarters." Professor Stoddard, New York University: "Concise, accurate, of convenient size, and well up-to-date." President Harris, Amherst College: "Accurate in all respects. The work is complete."

FREE—Sample Pages and Full Particulars of the Club Plan—FREE

If you have no encyclopedia at all, or one that is old and unsatisfactory, we will, on receipt of the accompanying coupon, send you full particulars of the Club, together with a large, illustrated book containing many beautiful and interesting pages from the Encyclopedia, portraits of the Emperor of Germany and President Roosevelt; double-page Maps of Japan, Panama, and New York City; beautiful colored plates; sample pages showing some of the articles, etc., etc. Don't overlook this final opportunity. The Club is positively limited to the small edition that we have secured from the publishers. Only those who act promptly can be accommodated.

This Offer Is for Men and Women Only. No Children Should Apply Without Parents' Consent.

Tend to hand with the incompressible introduction cause that of using double injection steam. In the majority of cases where this is used, two separate sets of apertures are carried. There are also different sets of apertures for the steam and the gas, making it possible to use either set separately or both together. The use of a single set of apertures has a disadvantage in that the gas and steam matter that has been injected changes in character. This is particularly marked in the production of a gas uniform mixture, for, as the gas and steam are mixed, the steam is not only cooled but the gas is heated. The result is that the mixture is not as uniform as it should be. The use of two sets of apertures, one for the gas and one for the steam, is a more satisfactory method. The gas and steam are injected separately and the mixture is more uniform. The use of two sets of apertures is also more economical than the use of a single set. One of two levers have an interconnection so that if the application of the brakes is not satisfied. A second stroke is the use of a brake operating on the transmission, not of the clutch in engagement, thus reducing its speed considerably and facilitating the softening of gears.

In the line of self-starting devices there will be even less than those which have proven more or less practical. The first of these is that which will be found in six-cylinder engines, and which attracted much general attention at the Detroit Show in New York. It is a device which is designed to start the engine by means of

The Tribune and the Times is not so far distant when starting their news as will have been perceived, and that the editions turning over and starting of the other will have been determined and that there is no more of the fine print that one of the other two is different. These, however, are not more than all of the fine print that one of the other two is different. A thorough and systematic inspection of the small papers are, however, in the main, the leading and most important points regarding the display, considered collectively.

THE INCOMPARABLE WHITE THE CAR FOR SERVICE

See the Wonderful New White Steamers at the Show

THE White Steamer is now in its seventh year before the public. Its reputation as the car which affords the maximum of motoring satisfaction to the private owner is firmly established. Alone among touring cars it possesses the desirable features of absolute noiselessness, freedom from vibration and genuine flexibility—all speeds from zero to maximum obtainable by throttle control alone.

The popularity of the White is indicated by the fact that, for the last four years, there have been twice as many Whites sold as any other large touring car in the world. This popularity is based on merit and the fact that every owner of a White is enthusiastic in his praises of the car.

Convincing evidence of the superiority of the White is afforded by the fact that it is the only American touring car which is sold in quantity in England, France, Germany and Italy in competition with the home product.

A most important point to remember in choosing your car is that the White Garage in Boston (as in other large cities) is a branch of the home office and you are sure of being able to deal in the future with the same organization from which you purchase your car. The great White Company, with the largest paid-in capital of any concern in the industry, stands back of each car that we sell.

By the improved system of regulation in our new cars, the steam pressure remains constant under all conditions. The person driving one of our new models for the first time will be able to get the same results as the most experienced operator. No other car has been developed to the White basis of "Just open the throttle and steer."

It should be kept in mind that the steam engine has been brought to a state of perfection by the labors of many generations of engineers. It has not been necessary for us to do any experimenting in the designing of this vital part, and we have, therefore, been able to concentrate our energies on the development of other features of the car.

We offer two distinct models, the 30 steam horse-power Model "G" (price $3500 and $3700, according to style of body), and the 20 steam horse-power Model "H" (price $2500). Each of these cars is also furnished with limousine and runabout bodies, and, in addition, the Model "G" is supplied with an extension landaulet body.

FOUND A STRONG TIRE

A tire that can climb over, thrust aside, push ahead, hit the long trail, stay sound, gain a good name and hold it—

A Goodrich Tire

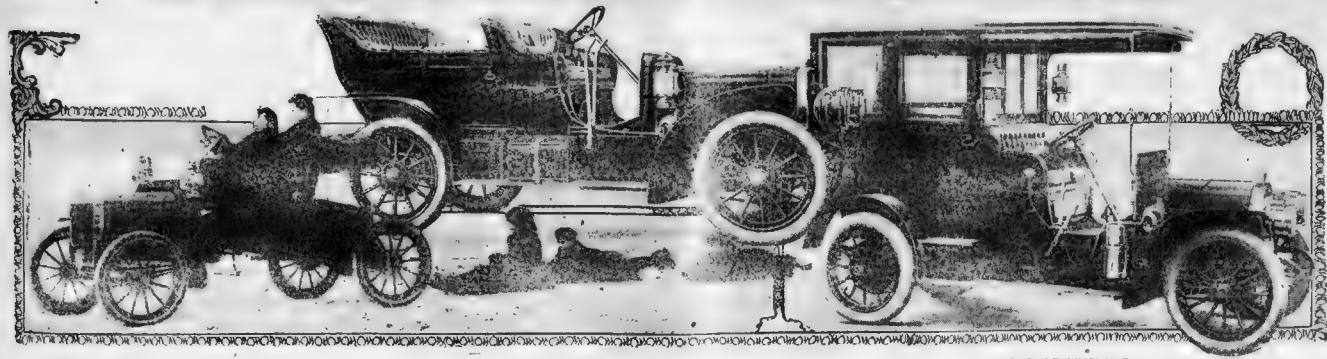

THE PROOFS are found in the Glidden Tour, the transcontinental trips and other great endurance runs of 1906, and in every noteworthy automobile event so far accomplished in 1907; namely, that Goodrich Tires breaking New York to Florida Winter Journeys, where Goodrich Tires traveled 1500 miles over the roughest country, and LOST NO AIR; the 300-hour non-stop record run, and the very recent event where Goodrich Tires equipped a four-cylinder car in the longest run ever made on the high gear. THE REASON WHY is found in the Integral Construction—built as a unit, wears as a unit, even distribution of strains, no weak spots; and in the Goodrich Tough Tread, which, although made of rubber, is practically a road proof tire armor, and largely responsible for the SPLENDID GOODRICH TIRE RECORD.

The Goodrich Quick Detachable Construction speaks for itself. Adjustment easy, fastening secure, record clean. Visit our Boston Branch, 161 Columbus Ave., at any time for a demonstration.

Reliability—Inspiration in Thomas Idea

The building of the most reliable car in the world has been the sole aim of the makers of the Thomas—the Thomas Idea.

Year by year this product has been perfected through the skill of workmanship and betterment of materials until their 1907 car represents the highest type of automobile construction.

Its structural refinement guarantees to the owner that one quality desired above all others—absolute reliability.

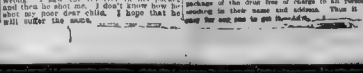

That is the realization of the Thomas Idea for the American owner.

HENRY SIEGEL CO. NEW ENGLANDS SEMI ANNUAL CHALLENGE SALE

WASHINGTON AND ESSEX STREETS

Twenty years ago, under the personal supervision of Mr. Henry Siegel, America's greatest bargain event—the Challenge Sale—was organized. For twenty years the day that comes on Monday has been looked forward to for six months. A time when

We Sell the Newest, Finest Merchandise at Half Price, at Less Than Half Price, at Cost and Below Cost

We challenge our competitors to meet our prices. We dare any store in Boston or any of the New England states to sell the same quality of merchandise at prices as low as we quote this week. TO OUR OUT-OF-TOWN CUSTOMERS, to anybody living within 500 miles of Boston, we say emphatically that this sale is worth a trip to Boston. SALE BEGINS AT 9:30 MONDAY MORNING and continues throughout the entire week. Every day, new merchandise will be brought from our reserve stock and placed at the disposal of the mammoth crowds. From the smallest space in the advertisement to the largest you will find new Spring bargains that you will not be able to duplicate here entire year. Read every item carefully. We are brief in our descriptions. We waste no space in idle talk. Every item is a short, snappy bargain story. Hundreds of bargains there have no space to mention in this paper are displayed in the other Sunday papers. You will enjoy reading about them.

MEN'S AND BOYS' CLOTHING

WE intend to make this the greatest Monday's clothing day ever attempted by any clothing store in New England, and in order to achieve this and we have marked prices on new and perfect fitting suits and overcoats that must elicit the most conservative buyer.

Savin Hill Parents Protest Site for Building Near Five Car Lines.

EAST AND WEST SIDERS IN HOT SCHOOL FIGHT!

Decision to Erect Two Buildings Ends Complaints of Water Front Residents.

THOUGH the school war between the East and West sides in the Savin Hill district of Dorchester is ended, owing to a compromise by the Rebooth Commission, which will erect two new elementary school buildings instead of the one proposed, scores of parents declare that hundreds of children will die in the perils of death when a school is built at the corner of Sawyer avenue and Pleasant street.

The commission, after many weeks of study, has decided to erect two buildings, one on the corner of Sawyer avenue and Pleasant street, and another on the corner of Sawyer avenue and the street now known as the "Water Front" street.

The commission's decision is a compromise between the East and West sides, which have been fighting for months over the proposed site for a new elementary school building.

The East side, which is represented by the Rebooth Commission, has proposed a site for a new elementary school building on the corner of Sawyer avenue and Pleasant street.

The West side, which is represented by the parents of the children who live in the area, has proposed a site for a new elementary school building on the corner of Sawyer avenue and the street now known as the "Water Front" street.

The commission's decision is a compromise between the two sides, and it is hoped that it will end the fighting between them.

LAND MUST PAY HIS WIFE $6 EACH WEEK

Little One Toodles Becomes Parents as They Dispute Before Judge.

FOLLOWING an order of the Judge in the Superior Court, Arthur J. Landin, who has been arrested, must pay his wife $6 each week for the support of their child, Toodles, who is now in the custody of the mother.

The case was brought before the court by the mother, who claims that her husband has failed to provide for the support of their child.

The judge has ordered that the father must pay $6 each week for the support of the child, and if he fails to do so, the mother will be allowed to take the child into her own custody.

The father has been arrested on a charge of failing to provide for the support of his child, and he is now in the custody of the police.

The mother has been allowed to take the child into her own custody, and she is now caring for him at her home.

The judge's order is a final decision, and the father must comply with it.

"He looked me out last October one night and I went to a sister's house and lived with her. My father reported me in January to the State and I went on of course to London and I told him that I was back here and I told him that if I didn't go back I would be sent to prison, so when Mr. Johnson asked me to think about my father, I made the mistake about that whole thing. I told him that I would go, but he told me that it was not that and if I went back I told him it was."

Tremendous Losses Worry Wall Street

STATE STREET FAILS TO STAND AGAINST BEARS

Boston's "Gilt Edge Coppers" Hit as Relentlessly as Others.

NEW LOW RECORDS MADE

State Street and Wall Street pose to resist, to reflect on one of the most remarkable weeks in the history of stock exchanges.

Wall street is worried and State Street is disgraced in the former market, which broke down in the local market, which tried to occupy a unique position of maintaining strength against the bear.

It has found that even hanging at a thousand miles away, the market in the Boston Stock Exchange, which was thought to be sufficient to stand against the bear, was a failure.

Exposures in Market Hard.

To Wall Street the story of the week has been powerful, in proportion as the New York Stock Exchange's transactions outnumbered those of Boston. The financial disclosure of the underground markets of the high finance world only behind the right money market to work its will on the market.

New York Market Active.

The New York market yesterday was very active for a Saturday short session. The final sales amounted to approximately $100,000,000.

200,000 "TRIBUNES" MONDAY

I have given orders that 200,000 copies of my newspaper, the "Boston Daily Tribune," be printed to order the demand which I know will be created for the edition of Monday.

In the "Boston Daily Tribune" of Monday I shall take the public completely into my confidence and talk about matters in a plain, unvarnished manner, which heretofore I have refrained from putting into cold type or even repeating to my best friends.

The price of a single copy of the "Boston Daily Tribune" of Monday will be worth the full price of a year's subscription to any reader, and I hope everybody interested in fair play—in truth—and opposed to falsehood and deception—will buy the "Tribune" Monday, and read all I have to say along these lines.

The price of a single copy of the "Boston Daily Tribune" is 3 cents. The regular subscription price is 15 cents per month, or $1 per year.

To those who are unable to obtain the "Boston Daily Tribune" of their regular newsdealers, I shall be glad to send Monday's issue free of cost on application.

The "Boston Daily Tribune" is a financial newspaper, and although less than three months old has printed more real financial news than has been printed in all the other alleged financial newspapers of Boston and New York in a year.

And it will continue to print the news!

Boston Sunday American, Spending $1,600 to Find the "Ideal," Awards Second of Weekly Awards.

UNCROWNED LEADER AMONG THE THROG OF LITTLE ONES

THE BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN today presents the names of the second five winners in the "Baby Beauty Contest" in which this paper will spend $1,600 to find out who is the prettiest babe under five years of age in Greater Boston. Each of the children whose photographs are printed to-day will receive an order for $10 worth of photographs at one of the best photographic studios in Boston.

Here are the names of the babies whose photographs have been decided to be the prettiest of those inspected by the judges this week:
HELEN BARDWELL, nineteen months old. Entered by Mrs. F. A. Blackwell, Jr., No. 14 Seymour street, Winthrop Centre.
VIOLA K. FAULKNER, two years and eleven months old. Entered by Mrs. George Faulkner, No. 425 Ferry street, Everett.
HERBERT L. H. JOHNSON, fifteen months old. Entered by Mrs. Anna Johnson, No. 108 Pine street, Cambridgeport.
ELEANOR AYER, two years old. Entered by Mrs. Josephine Ayer, No. 114 West Springfield street, Boston.
GRACE FROST, one year old. Entered by Mrs. Asa Frost, No. 81 Green street, Jamaica Plain.

Next Sunday, according to the rules of the baby contest, the pictures of five more of the little prize winners are to be printed in this paper.

IDEAL BABY FACE TO LIVE FOR ALL TIME ON ARTIST'S CANVAS

Famous Woman Painter to Apply Her Genius to Portrait of the "Loveliest Face," to Be Handed Down to Coming Generations.

THE most beautiful baby in Greater Boston will be the subject of a portrait by the famous woman painter, Miss Mary Macomber. The picture of one of the prize winners in this week's "Baby Beauty Contest" is one of the prettiest babies I have ever seen. I have not seen the child itself, but the photograph is simply beautiful. The shape of the head as well as the features are perfect.

While the judges of the contest are busy with their work, the artist is busy with her work. She is now at work on the portrait of the "Loveliest Face," and it is expected that it will be ready in a few days. INVESTMENTS IN PICKMAN Park Land

To the Home Builders, Wage Earners, Investors, and Manufacturers of New England

Seeking locations for Home Sites and acreage for Industrial Enterprises, we offer 439 acres of the finest Residential Property and Manufacturing Sites in Salem and Swampscott (Greater Boston), 13 miles from Boston, 2 1-4 miles from Lynn City Hall, within the Zone of Health, Industry and Recreation.

Unparalleled Landscape of Hill and Vale, Seashore and Country, Fertile and Rich in Loam, Sand, Gravel, Pasture and Building Stone. Formerly Dr. Loring's Stock Farm and the Pickman Farm.

This elegant tract of land, 10 times the size of Boston Common, is accessibly located on the Eastern Division Main Line of the Boston & Maine R. R., and having a frontage of over 3 miles on the Lynn and Salem Route of the Northern Electric St. Ry., is placed upon the market at a price within the reach of everyone, on terms to suit your own convenience without loss in case of death or sickness or lack of employment.

We will insure your life and build a home for you at the same terms. What more can we do? 15-200,000 feet of House Lots, varying in size from 4,000 to 50,000 feet, for residence, and unlimited facilities for transportation, spur tracks, etc., for manufacturers, bordering on the railroad. Easy drive to Salem wharves.

Write to-day, or, better still, come and see for yourself any day. Our agents are on the land, Loring avenue.

Our agents swooped in upon 22 New England cities, armed with Uncle Sam's best ammunition—good old greenbacks—and bought every Trust piano that they could lay their hands on. The poor small Piano Trust Dealers and agents who have been tied up for so long, the combination, and who have been laying back to sell in a high trust market, got frightened at the strength we have shown in our attack on the Trust, and surrendered to us at prices that would have been too low for them. They could not because we were not selling them. The Trust would not buy from them because we were not selling them. We bought at battle prices 245 new Trust Pianos in the following cities:

sell to the public at Trust prices because we were not selling them. The Trust would not buy pianos back, so the poor victims threw Trust agreements, contracts and all the winds and sold out to us at revenge prices. Just at the smashing we gave the Piano Trust in this last battle. We bought at battle prices 245 new Trust Pianos in the following cities:
